

CHECKLIST FOR PLANNING GREAT OUTDOOR SPACES

ENVISION

Consider the ways the area is envisioned to be used by people.

Poll the audience: Include stakeholders and operational team in the planning process.

Be sure that your landscape architect has a seat at the table at the inception - theirs' is an important and helpful perspective.

BUDGET

Reality Check: How much can you afford to spend?

What can you not afford to miss, or mess-up?

How will the improvements be funded (or financed)?.

DESIGN

Use a "Partnering" project delivery process, with multi-disciplinary professional collaboration - with the landscape architect in the lead.

Incorporate the principles of Universal Design, so that everyone can use the site.

Plants & People: Reap the many therapeutic benefits afforded by Biophillic Design.

ENJOY

Reap the benefits of enhanced well-being, safe socialization, and being outdoors in the midst of nature's beauty!
